Our BPM Approach

Business Model-Oriented

Steps: 1 2 3

Our Business Models

Standard Business	Build to Print
	Build to Standard
	Adapt to Standard
	Buy and Sell
Project Business	Design and Build Once
	Design and Build for Volume
	Design and Build to Print
	Design
Service Business	Serve and Support
	Train and Consult

Step 1: Build & Fill Business Model/Business Unit Matrix

Steps: 1 2 3

1.1 Interrelate Business Models and Business Units (BUs).

1.2 Consider process-relevant Market Specifics.

1.3 Consider process-relevant Strategies, Structures, and Regulations.

Steps: 1 2 3

Step 2: Build & Fill Success Factors/Process Matrices

2.1 Interrelate Success Factors and Processes for each BM.

2.2 Identify critical Process Categories.

2.3 Prioritize Process Categories.

2.4 Identify critical Process Groups.

Steps: 1 2 3

Step 3: Link BPM with BMs Through Process Metrics

3.1 Assign appropriate Process Metrics to Process Groups.

3.2 Determine Target Values for each Process Metric.

Our Evaluation Criteria

(selection)

- Metrics (optimization potential)
- Strategic importance of Business Model
- Revenue Share of Business Model
- Contribution to Success Factors of Model(s)
- Process Costs
- Business Case
- Relevance for planned IT Project (e.g. ERP)

Our Governance Model

➤ Main Processes

- Process Project Proposition
- Process for Releasing To-Be-Processes

➤ Main Roles

- Process Driver
- Steering Committee
- Process Developer

➤ Process Modeling Conventions

Our BPM Tools

➤ ARIS Business Designer

- Value Chain Diagrams
- Event-Driven Process Chains

➤ ARIS Business Publisher

Change Management

(BPM is not always welcomed like this)

Our Efforts in a Nutshell

- BPM Mission and Roadmap
- Show-case Project
- Low BPM resources (staff, budgets)
- Involvement of Top Management
- Business Model-Oriented

Key Takeaways

1. Business models link strategy with BPM.
2. They can help:
 - Bringing in the customer perspective
 - Managing complexity
 - Finding a resilient compromise between effectiveness and efficiency.
