

HUMAN CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

The vital information you need to get the best people, doing their best work.

APQC has studied how leading organizations make the most of their most important asset, their people, for over three decades. Using the power of process, benchmarking, and practitioner experience, APQC uncovers solutions to the human capital challenges that business leaders, HR professionals, and people managers face as they pursue productivity and quality goals.

Because of our expertise and our experience working with organizations of all sizes, we are able to curate information giving a balanced view of the fundamentals, as well as emerging trends. APQC addresses the entire human capital management life cycle by researching these core areas:

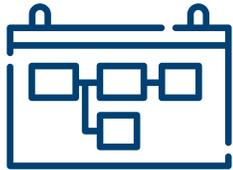

- Compensation & benefits
- Employee communication
- Employee training & development
- Human capital management process improvement
- People management
- Performance management & evaluation
- Recruiting & staffing
- Rewards & recognition programs
- Strategic workforce planning/workforce analytics

“We use the APQC Process Classification Framework[®] to map the employee role and responsibility.”

- Kien Kiong Teo, Hewlett-Packard Company
